GIRL, 10, IS SHOT; KILLER SLAYS SELF

Carpenter, Believed Insane, Enters San Bruno School Yard and Shoots Child Before Scores of Playmates

Principal Held at Bay With Gun; Murderer Tells Her Mother of Tragedy, Then Ends Life as Arrest Is Made

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Ten-year-old Thelma Lee was shot down and killed before scores of her companions at the Edgemont school, in San Bruno, on the San Mateo boulevard, by Paul Nelson, 42 years of age, a contracting carpenter, who later shot and killed himself when he was cornered in his cabin a short distance from the school, by town marshal William Waddell today.

John McCune, principal of the school, narrowly escaped being shot when he went to the little girl's rescue. Nelson menaced McCune with his revolver and held the latter at bay until he escaped.

TELLS MOTHER OF VICTIM ABOUT TRAGEDY HE ENACTED

The girl was shot down without warning. The first shot penetrated her head. As she collapsed on the ground, Nelson fired again, the bullet entering the right arm. A few minutes after the shooting, Nelson encountered Mrs. Anna Lee, the mother of the little girl, who was boarding an auto bus for San Francisco, and said:

"Good morning Mrs. Lee I have just shot and killed your little daughter Thelma."

Nelson then disappeared in some bushes bordering the road. Mrs. Lee collapsed.

SEES OFFICER'S GUN READY. KILLS HIMSELF WITH OWN

A short time later, acting on a tip that Nelson had returned to his cabin, at the rear of a garage in a canyon back of Uncle Tom's Cabin, a roadhouse, Waddell started his pursuit as Nelson drove near the cabin through a window. Drawing his revolver, Waddell approached a window in the cabin and called upon the Appellate Court, which he now had in his possession.

Nelson said: "I have shot and killed your little daughter Thelma."

MURDERER DYING WHEN OFFICER RUSHES INTO HUT

Waddell sprang for the door of the hut and as he did so two shots rang out. When Waddell entered the cabin he found Nelson lying on the floor, dying.

Theories as to the cause of the tragedy differ. One report which could not be confirmed from any source was that Nelson had been guilty of misconduct with a 13-year-old girl, and that he had killed the little Lee girl because she knew of the matter and had threatened to make it known. Another theory was that Nelson had gone to the cabin to shoot this unidentified 13-year-old girl and had mistaken the Lee girl for his intended victim.

SECOND TRAGEDY: WITHIN YEAR IN LEE FAMILY

Friends and others of Nelson, however, emphatically discredit these unconfirmed reports, declaring that Nelson, who had lived in San Bruno for more than 15 years, was quiet, law abiding and of generally splendid character. They expressed the belief that Nelson must have become suddenly insane.

Today's tragedy is the second to have happened to Mrs. Lee within the last 12 months. Last December a short time before Christmas, her husband, Elvira T. Lee, who was mate of a coastwise ship, was drowned in a wreck off Crescent city. Mrs. Lee has a younger son William, who was at home when his sister was shot and killed.

R. R. Strikers Fire On Strikebreakers

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Increasing violence marked the ninth day of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit strike. The worst disorder occurred when about fifteen men, in two automobiles, opened fire upon the men's club rooms at the East New York car barns, where about 500 strikebreakers are quartered.

The attackers, the police say, were armed with shotguns, rifles, pistols, and equipped with Maxim silencers. Police reserves were rushed to the scene and the attackers fled, firing upon their pursuers. The police commandeered automobiles and gave chase and a thrilling running fight developed. About twenty shots were fired, but so far as known no one was wounded. The attackers escaped.

Small bands of marauding strikers harassed the company by tampering with signals, greasing rails and cutting trolley wires.

Joshua Sykes Denied Rehearing By Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The district court of appeals, today, denied a rehearing in the Rev. Joshua Sykes, pastor of "The Church of Living God." A. M. Dean, John Ferguson and Joseph Crosby, followers of Sykes, in their conviction of violating the espionage act.

The case was an outgrowth of the war. Sykes and his followers being accused of obstructing the draft by advising others not to register.

Sykes had been sentenced to 15 months at McNeil's Island federal penitentiary, the others to one year. They had appealed and were seeking a new trial.

Sykes' case drew great interest in Berkeley. One night a crowd burned Sykes' tabernacle where he conducted his services and forced Sykes to leave the town.

Morse to Oust Petersen Again, Hinted at Hall

Commissioner Says He May Discharge Sleuth Because of Gun Theft

That Commissioner F. F. Morse will take steps again to oust Captain of Inspectors Walter J. Petersen was indicated this morning when he said that he would take on two courses and are open to him when he presents a copy of the remittance of the Appellate Court, which he now has in his possession.

Morse said he would either discharge Petersen on the strength of the disappearance of a quantity of drugs from the inspectors' bureau or he would ask Petersen to explain.

He also hinted that if the disappearance of the drug was not sufficient ground upon which to again discharge the sleuth chief he would add to it the evidence which he has gathered on the alleged disappearance of a number of guns which were taken from strikebreakers during the street car strike a year ago

PETERSEN TO TAKE JUS TIME

Morse said that he would take no further action in the matter until Petersen has had the remittance of the funds he served. Petersen said he was in no hurry to serve the papers on Morse; that he was enjoying his vacation, and that he would take his time in serving them, which has caused more or less uneasiness throughout the offices on both the second and fifth floors of the city hall.

Friends of Petersen appeared at the inspector's bureau this morning to complain that he had never been appointed upon learning that he had not shown up to claim his birth

Captain of Inspectors James T. Drew remained on the job throughout the day.

PETERSEN NOT AT CITY HALL

Petersen has not been around the city hall since the court decision was handed down Saturday. Morse was at his office early this morning and left word with those outside his sanctum to show Petersen in as soon as he arrived.

COX ANNOUNCES HANDS OFF ON DRY AMENDMENT

By HERBERT W. WALKER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

DEVIL'S LAKE, N. D., Sept. 7.—Governor James M. Cox stated here today that he does not intend to interfere with the eighteenth amendment. His statement, the first on the liquor question, was made to a woman who questioned him on prohibition as he shook hands with her.

"My dear lady," he said, "I have always voted dry and do not intend to interfere with the eighteenth amendment."

SCHOOL GIRLS FLEE.

LONG BEACH, Calif., Sept. 7.—Search for two school girls, believed to have eloped with sailors and to be en route to a navy yard in Washington, was continued by officials today. The girls, Margaret Hyden, 14, and Gertrude Longmire, 16, left their homes Saturday. They sent identical messages to their parents from Los Angeles. The messages read: "Don't worry, I'm safe, though and forgive."

Critics are like brushers of other men's clothes.

The fact that women are voting in the New Hampshire primaries for the first time lends interest to the senatorial fight there, especially as the supporters of the League of Women Voters, who were appointed by Governor Wilson as minister of foreign minister, and Viscount Chinda, formerly ambassador at Washington and London, have been made counts.

The only Democratic entry for the primary senatorial nomination is Paul S. Hinsch, former dean of political science in the University of Wisconsin, who was appointed by President Wilson as minister of foreign minister.

WISCONSIN COMPLICATED.

In Wisconsin the situation has been considerably complicated by local issues, including wet or dry, "Germanism," railroads, National League, etc., as well as interest in the League party itself. Although originally Hinsch was regarded as a protege of Lafollette, the senior Wisconsin senator in the present campaign has been endeavoring to accomplish the junior senator's retirement. Lafollette's candidate is James Thompson.

UNOPPOSED IN NEVADA.

In Nevada the Democratic primary, Senator Charles B. Henderson is unopposed for re-nomination.

On the Republican side there are five candidates, including ex-Governor Tasker L. Oddie, Rev. Brewster Adams, a Baptist pastor of Reno, and Grant Miller, formerly a Socialist candidate for the senate. As in many other states, the League of Nations is regarded as the chief issue.

Nevada again boasts of a woman candidate for the senate in Miss Anna Martin, who is running independently.

SCRAMBLE IN MASS.

Although Massachusetts does not choose a United States senator this year, there has been a lively scramble in both parties for nomination for congress. The gubernatorial nomination to succeed Governor Calvin Coolidge, is the only Republican entry in today's primaries. The Democratic candidate is John R. Conroy of Worcester, and candidates John H. Walsh of Boston and Richard H. Long of Framingham.

GEORGIA FIGHT HOT.

One of the hottest campaigns in the country has been going on in Georgia, where primaries are to be held tomorrow and where Senator Hoke Smith is being opposed for the Democrats' renomination by Tom Watson, former Populist; Governor Eugene Tamm and Colonel John R. Conroy of Macon.

Smith voted for the Lodge reservation and announced his satisfaction with Governor Cox's League policy. Both Watson and Cooper are anti-Wilson and anti-League, while Governor Dorsey is the only Democratic candidate for the senatorial nomination who has given full endorsement to the Wilson administration.

The governor's telegram says: "I came a long way to attend the conference of State Governors with Senator Harding, to hear him discuss reclamation, and to get a close-up view of the Republican nominee, whose dignified campaign and masterful addresses have created a profound impression in our state."

"Senator Harding grows on intimate contact. There is a directness and sincerity in his manner that wins at once, and he commands respect. He does all who know him and have the good fortune to hear him, that he is peculiarly qualified to lead the nation in the critical period of reconstruction; will restore to the nation government as designed by the fathers; and that he will surround himself with the nation's wisest men, and co-operate with the various states—which, cooperation, the governors of the nation are anxious to see."

"I was glad to impart to Senator Harding good tidings from California, where all Republicans are working harmoniously and enthusiastically for his election."

"I expect to return to California shortly, and will devote all my time till election day delivering speeches throughout the state for the Republican ticket."

Crop of Squirrels

To love, as they do, with an eye to their need and not for selfishness alone. It would be much of an honor to produce a nearly crop of squirrels, but some gangs I wet of aren't even producing squirrels. To work for our daily acorn without a lot of self pity and envy. To put the full force of tooth and eye and scent into the adventure of the moment, whatever the ultimate outcome.

To go the maximum distance with the minimum discomfort and fuss. That's the animal way—hot and quick, with all claws set for the next chance. That's the savage way. That's the kind of feeling that's good, shooting along most of our backbones. It isn't a parlor feeling, and, worse luck, it isn't usually a permanent feeling. But for the time being it makes us sure we could sink our teeth into anything that came our way.

And I say—
If a bunch of egg beaters, tin cans, vacuum cleaners an' cow bells can produce that feeling in my spine, even temporarily—ME FOR JAZZ!
An' if you've any opinion on the subject, let's hear it.

OAKLAND "DOLLAR DAY"—WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 15

MY HEART and MY HUSBAND

by ADELE GARRISON

HOW MAJ. GRANTLAND FORESTALLS DICKY

...I think Hugh Grantland was never in an explosion of temper than he was when Dicky, in his non-violent mood, transferred Little and me to our car and take us home, leaving the officer to transport little Mrs. Duckee, her son and the Fairfax girls to the beach for dinner. Whether intentional or not and I gave Dicky the benefit of the doubt, my husband's voice and manner while making the suggestion was filled with paternal possessiveness. In it he had said just as many words, "Run along little boy. You've been very kind, but I'm in charge now, and you don't need to bother any longer," he could not have made his meaning clearer.

One hand of the officer was resting idly on the wheel, the other upon his knee. I saw one grip the steering gear fiercely, saw the other clench into a fist, and then, with a non-violent look, if he would accept Dicky's manner, I knew my husband's hot temper, feared a scene if the officer did not regain his usual icy poise.

To my surprise, despite my panic, I found my sympathies instinctively ranged behind Maj. Grantland. Usually I am for Dicky, right or wrong, but the knowledge of his trawling, so enjoyable with Alice, Dickie and the Fairfax girls in motor excursions while I was ill had struck me cruelly. I was not quite ready to be taken up again like a doll that had been neglected for a time and picked up again in a hurry because its owner sees some other child admiring it.

I need not have feared, however. The young officer had calmed himself too quickly to allow his temper to get the better of him. But he allowed himself one little departure from the conventional.

Bending his head low over the steering wheel as if to adjust something, he spoke softly, but measuredly, as if it between clenched teeth: "Does this proposal meet your wish?"

My reply was prompt, though elusive.

"It is better so, but—I am sorry."

My sense of justice would not allow me to say less, and I was glad that I had uttered the words when I saw his face brighten and the grip of his hands loosen.

The bit of play had taken but a moment, and I was reasonably sure that it had been unnoticed. And when the officer spoke I was astonished to hear his voice holding note altogether foreign to it—that of reckless gaiety.

"I ought to quarrel with you, I suppose, Graham," he said, smiling "for depriving me of your wife's society, but when you give me such a charming exchange I am dumb. Allow me, Mrs. Graham."

And I thought him awkward in making a statement.

Of course I said we could only end up by abstaining the warning "to men and women" that he was naturally shy and self-conscious with women, because little used to their society, but that he was the type of man whom emergencies or strong excitement stimulate to a facility of manner, a person of great gaiety, foreign to the rest of us.

As he spoke his head turned to the ground, and turned with outstretched hand to distract me to sight. His quickness effectively forestalled Dicky, who had jumped as quickly from the bonneau of our own machine and was hurrying toward us evidently with the purpose of helping me out.

I have never seen my husband look so pale before, and when he realized that Maj. Grantland had leaped from the officer and me, pulling off an imaginary plumed hat as he did so, and flourishing it in a long sweep.

"Very much after you, my dear Grantland," he paraphrased gaily. "And let me thank you on behalf of both Mrs. Graham and myself for your care of her."

He quickly bowed us, offered me his arm gallantly as he indicated had done, and then, his face flushed. Although he was no longer so picturesque a figure that women-like, I felt my resentment against him overshadowed by my pride in him.

The Letters of Tessie and Joe

Joe is a traveling salesman. Tessie is his loving wife. Follow their letters in The OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

DEAR TESSIE:

I'm glad I wasn't home to see you play poker, if it's all the same to you. As a poker player you're just naturally not among those present, and it's no good of you trying to learn. Good poker players are born and not made, and so are had ones for that matter, and while a good one can make himself better, the only way a bad one can change is by getting worse. Only that's impossible in your case. I don't want to sound discouraging, but when there's facts to look in the face, look 'em in, that's my motto.

Speaking of poker, I'm glad you didn't take it into your head to surprise me by sending that bird Ponzi a flock of money in the hopes of reaping 50 per cent harvest by return mail. Anybody in this particular world who expects something for nothing, with the exception of troubles, has got to take it out in expecting. And there's even a lot of troubles that got to be worked hard for, but trouble is one thing that people don't seem to mind plugging for. In fact their energy in working for it is only equalled by their surprise when it lands on the back of their neck.

But as for money, Tessie, that's a thing that don't come easy, except maybe to Ponzi and landlords. I know I perspire for mine. It's no cinch selling Daisy Canned Soups to people who either never heard of the brand before or else I wish they hadn't. Not that D. C. Soups are the worst in the world, probably, but I got to give them credit for being the worst in my territory. I'm sending you home another box of samples, but if you really insist on it it's the last box I'll send you. I suppose it's no use making yourself sick even if it don't cost you anything.

Don't rock the baby to sleep. It will make him more manly if he has to cry himself to sleep a few times. Of course it may be a little hard on you, but I'm able to stand the thought of it, so you as a mother ought to be able to stand the sound of it. Love,

JOE

News of the Churches

"Labor Sunday" was observed by out fear. In the last judgment we will not fear the face of the Holy God because Jesus, our advocate, will be at our side.

A large delegation from this church will go to San Anselmo September 3.

PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL—If there is nothing to do in Heaven, but sit around, eat, drink, and sleep about half an hour of it would be plenty for me. I should find the prospect much more attractive if it were advertised that we could have a good time, talking and swapping stories over the back fence with our next-door neighbors. But there will be work to do, and I am convinced that work will be God-given work just as there is here.

This was one of the declarations of Rev. Charles L. Kloss, pastor of Plymouth Congregational Church in San Francisco. Sunday, "The Path to Industrial Peace," Special Labor Day services were also held throughout Berkeley, including the First Congregational Church on "Unorganized Joys" in which he included the great joy of labor.

"America is not threatened by socialism, but the man in a potential capitalist," continued the speaker. "How many millions of us have bought Liberty bonds, own our homes, and other property, and a future we were promised. It is the other—the man lacking in ambition, the one who wants something to hold on to, who sits in idleness, who sits still, who sits in idleness, and leaves his fellows, whom he has helped, to pay the price of their folly.

"Our unorganized joys are our real joys, and the man who is continually reason pauses and philosophies stands puzzled. It was but a part of reason for Abraham to take Isaac and leave him, and after Isaac was given a fool for praying, upon defiance of the king's mandate; the disciples were fools for leaving their nets to follow him, whom they scarcely knew. Paul was a fool in becoming an apostle of a primitive Christianity, the martyrs to face hungry lions in the arena, to be beheaded, the apostles to the nations, the martyrs to face Chinese Clerks, to be held heads on executioner's block for the descending stroke of the sword. Paul was John W. Paton for preaching to the cannibals of the South Sea Islands. A fool is that young man who holds himself hard to principles of religion and tries a life of asceticism and misery, and punishes when he can be nothing but gay, good fun; a fool was your mother, who once taught your untrained lips to sing the prayers of childhood, and who, when her feet were laid to rest, left the song from the great River Jordan.

"The man who is most afraid with light upon his face that never was on land or sea, while you crept along the shore, the tiny, timid, puny, who could be nothing but gay, good fun; a fool was your mother, who once taught your untrained lips to sing the prayers of childhood, and who, when her feet were laid to rest, left the song from the great River Jordan.

"The political and social ideals of Thomas Jefferson, Thomas Paine, and Abraham Lincoln are the greatest that have ever been given to the world. Are the ideals for which they lived worth preserving? Is the problem that we face today?"

"The Red Menace is Civilization," said the speaker of the German Rev. Charles Fried at the First Unitarian church Sunday. "A number of the citizens of our country are strongly opposed to any restriction of our freedom of speech. I speak, however, of the speech of freedom of speech should not be subject to any restrictions, and should not be interfered with by any person or master.

The parlor Bolshevik is in many respects more dangerous than the I. W. W. soap-bag orator—who specializes in class discrimination—as he uses more insidious methods of propaganda.

"Shall we stand idly by while our political institutions are being undermined by the Red Menace?" asked the speaker. "We should set to work to make of every university school and pulpit a shrine of patriotism and democracy. Our task is to preserve and improve institutions that we have inherited from the founders of our country.

The political and social ideals of Thomas Jefferson, Thomas Paine, and Abraham Lincoln are the greatest that have ever been given to the world. Are the ideals for which they lived worth preserving? Is the problem that we face today?"

Society Happenings

Baby Hospital Plans Now Interest Many

MRS. GEORGE ROTHGANGER and one of the little babies of the Ladies' Relief Society, for which Market Day will be celebrated September 18th in the city hall plaza, a festival in which hundreds of eastbay society women will take part.

With but three weeks ahead before the annual Baby Hospital Fair and picnic, the committees are hastily getting together their plans and rehearsals are going on for the "Merry Whirl," the picture queen, the pageant of the maidens and matrons and their escorts, and in which more than a hundred children are to participate, it is to be a colorful affair the scene changing on down through the ages, with Orient and fitting all of the atmosphere of the Far East woven into the setting. There will be a Chinese procession, Arabian and Peacock dances, Spanish dances and many interesting solo acts to be taken by leading Eastbay women.

September 30, October 1 and 2 are the dates ahead for the pageant and fair which the Baby Hospital has served as the background for the benefit, again to be the stage of the events.

Mrs. Walter Leimert will have the responsibility of the Aladdin's Banquet, Sumurun, and is arranging dances which will bring an effective climax. Those who have accepted the roles of the Margaret and Mesdames—Walter Leimert, William Thornton White, Joseph Carleton, Everett Brown, Clifford Durant, Frank Hunt, Director, Percy Murdoch, Josephine Knowland and Miss Anne Peters.

In addition to Mrs. Leimert the following are to have solo dances: Mrs. D. G. Brinkley, Lydia Martin, Misses Virginia Martin, Alice Martin, Margaret Sherman, Virginia Byrne, Frances Redman, Mary Shafner and Marle Allen.

Many performers will end up in a grand carnival.

PLAN OF THE WORLD COURT.

Although the report of the jurists' advisory committee on the plan for an International Court of Justice as provided for in Article XIV of the League of Nations covenant has not been officially made public, what appears to be accurate digest of the plan have appeared in London and French newspapers and the press of the United States. Probably the council of the League of Nations, to which the report of the advisory committee has been submitted, will not make a statement regarding it until the next meeting in November at Geneva, but members seem to be under no inhibition to discuss the plan in advance.

Inasmuch as Mr. Harding, the Republican nominee for the Presidency, has discussed the proposal of an International Court of Justice, and Mr. Myron T. Herrick, former ambassador to Paris, has stated that an important announcement would be made upon the return from Europe of Hon. Elihu Root, America's representative on the jurists' advisory committee, it is apparent that the discussion of this project will also be a part of the ensuing campaign. Perhaps it will influence the domestic political situation in a large degree. Since the new court is to function under the authority of the League of Nations it may be that it will offer some means of countering the opposition which has been voiced against the League.

In an article in the New York Times of August 28, written with obvious great care and apparently under the influence of information that could have come only from official sources, what were claimed to be the details of the plan for the new court were published.

The present Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice of The Hague is made the basis of the plan of organizing the new League of Nations Court. The Permanent Court of International Justice is to consist of eleven judges and four alternate judges. These are to serve for nine years. The court is to sit permanently at The Hague, the purpose of the permanent sitting being that the tribunal shall always be ready to determine causes arising between governments where questions strictly of a legal nature are concerned.

The Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice is to be continued as a body to arbitrate disputes between nations. The judges of the Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice are to nominate the judges of the Permanent Court of International Justice, whose sittings shall also be at The Hague.

In the selection of judges for the new court, the jurists of each nation who are members of the Court of Arbitral Justice are to form groups, each group to choose not more than six candidates for recommendation to the League of Nations. Not more than two of the six candidates of each nation may be citizens of that nation. In selecting its six candidates each national group in the present Permanent Court is expected to consult with the highest legal authorities of its own country including societies devoted to the application and interpretation of international law.

In the case of the United States the members of the American group in the present Hague tribunal would consult, under the terms of the plan submitted, with the United States Supreme Court and probably with the American International Law Society and the American Bar Association.

Out of the long list of nominees thus provided for, numbering six for each nation, the eleven members of the Permanent Court of International Justice are to be chosen. The list will be submitted by the Permanent Court of Arbitral Justice to both the Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations. Each of the governing bodies of the League will vote separately on the nomination, a majority being necessary to election.

The court is to have the right to compel nations to accept adjudication within certain limitations defining the character of the cases to be adjudicated. The decisions of the new court are to be founded solely on law and on fact, and the members of the court must not compromise.

The advisory committee is reported to have adopted Article XIV of the League covenant to define the category of cases which may be brought before the international court. This article, to which Mr. Root has given his endorsement, is as follows:

"Disputes as to the interpretation of a treaty, as to any question of international law, as to the existence of any fact which if established would constitute a breach of any international obligation, or as to the extent and nature of the reparation to be made for any such breach, are declared to be among those which are generally suitable for submission to arbitration."

We have in the above a fairly comprehensive picture of what the international jurists believe to be possible in the way of constituting the new court. Thus far all is well. But what of the machinery to enforce the decrees of the court? If an injunction against an offending nation is issued how will respect for the injunction be forced? Certainly there must be a very close and a workable association of nations to give effect to such a court.

In striving for this we shall come back pretty close to something that has been called a League of Nations. Perhaps a name that has not been converted into an offensive designation will be offered and then agreement possible.

IMPROVING FARM LIFE.

Of all the dwelling houses in California, 79 per cent are wired for electricity. Many homes are too remote to obtain electric service, but more than 91 per cent of those accessible to service lines have availed themselves of electricity. Cooking, heating, washing, ironing, home appliances and farm machinery are operated by electricity. The electrical trade considers California to be the most responsive market to new electric devices. There is a spirit to improve, a spirit of progress.

"We have often wondered why women seem to like California," says a bulletin of the Society for Electrical Development. "We sometimes have marveled at the so-called native son atmosphere of the State and the commonly asserted claim of Californians that if it comes from California it is the best. Women folks, as rule, enjoy any place where household tasks are lightened. If more of our farms were electrified and made more comfortable, requiring less physical effort in their operation, perhaps more of our young men and women would remain in the rural sections to furnish us with news of the wedding of Farmer George Brown and Farmeress Maybelle Smith. These announcements, by the way, are all too scarce for the good of the nation."

A bulletin designed to promote the interest of a certain line of goods may hit upon a very salient truth. So it appears in the above. The bulletin seemed to make farm life more comfortable, less severe, less insistent upon the very maximum of human endurance. Not only are modern labor saving methods and devices required if farm production is to keep up with demands and the farmer is to keep productive costs at a minimum, but life must be made more attractive, more "endurable" for the people, men and women, who live on the farms.

Much progress has been marked during the last five or six years in this respect. There have been constructed comfortable sleeping quarters, and real beds and bathing facilities for the farm workers have been installed where formerly the intemperate farm laborer had to sleep on the ground and provide his own blanket. If the farm owners and operators are wise they will continue to eliminate the unnecessary hardships of their business, because to do so holds an economic return in the form of more reliable, more plentiful and more efficient labor in the drastic harvesting season.

Next Thursday California will observe the seventeenth anniversary of her admission to Statehood. Celebrations will be held in many parts of the State, with the Native Sons and Daughters taking a leading part. The seven decades of progress in California is a worthy theme for public celebration. Aside from the ceremonials that will mark the occasion, the people should individually review the history of California and contemplate the splendid and mighty period. From this they should gather much faith and confidence for the future.

The New York Sun takes account of the elements in California in conjunction with Mr. Franklin B. Roosevelt's recent oratory here. "In the valley of the San Joaquin," it says, "where there are adults who never before heard thunder, never before saw rain in August, the candidate spoke in a rain and thunderstorm. Alas! His voice turned the rain into hissing steam and his last word was hotter than his first." Thus some of the weather phenomena of last month may be accounted for.

It is not entirely clear what is to eventuate as to suffrage. The Tennessee imbroglio leaves the matter somewhat in the air, at least as to action under the nineteenth amendment in the forthcoming presidential election. Ultimately, of course, suffrage will prevail; but the precipitate effort to hurry it along for Democratic campaign reasons has not met with the happy result that was expected.

The miracle in Ponzi's financing turns out to be a hiatus of some seven millions between his assets and his liabilities. Such miracles characterize every advertised effort to return fifty per cent profits to investors, yet they recur with a frequency that indicates that they leave no lesson.

NOTES and COMMENT

"Appearances are that Obregon has been elected president of Mexico. Reports differ as to his worthiness, but he has established some acquaintance about San Francisco bay in several recent visits, and is not lacking in defenders, who hold that he will be a vast improvement at the head of affairs over any since Diaz."

"It is something new and different if ship crews are deserting to farms. There has been a disturbing period of workers deserting farms for every other occupation, and if such a reverse movement is really beginning it will reassure those who feared for the future of food."

"Now appears of a Reno attorney being suspended from practice six weeks for unprofessional conduct in a divorce case. What unprofessionalism in divorce cases may be in Nevada is not entirely clear, but it would not appear to be heinous. Indeed, from some recent disclosures an idea may have obtained that there is no such lapse."

"The silence of Mr. Bryan seems to be making loud reverberations in the Democratic camp. Considering his normal indisposition to silence it certainly is observable."

"It is not always safe to despise humble things. A 'hot-dog' man in New York has been sued by a husband for alienating his wife's affections. Though as to that, it might be argued that hot dogs are no longer 'humble things.'

"Vigorous action will be necessary to reassure the baseball fan that his favorite game is on the square. Its wonderful popularity is based on the idea that it is the one game that is honest. The California disclosures have now been supplemented by similar outcroppings in the National League. Undoubted elimination of all such dishonesty is incumbent, and to the credit of those at the head of the game it is to be said that efforts are being made toward such elimination."

"It there is ever another draft—which of course it is hoped there will not be—the mistake is not likely to be made of assuming that slackening can be got away with if service can be staved off till hostilities are over. The pursuit of slackers since the war demonstrates that those who evade service are due for a reckoning in any event."

"The frequent expression that the masses are politically apathetic is controverted by such testimony as that of Senator Doran. Considering that the Senator himself was for a time apathetic as to some Republican candidates, that he is enthusiastic now, and was enthusiastic in others is worth of note."

"Plots to loot arsenals used to involve the things that are naturally housed there—ordnance and ammunition—but a Benicia plot indicated that alcohol was the plunder aimed at. Another change that has been wrought by prohibition."

"The news from Junction City that a clergyman is to fill the role of school teacher there furnishes an idea. The wholesale desertion of the teaching vocation in rural districts might be met, at least temporarily, by clergymen generally stepping into the breach."

"Some unusual claims have been made under industrial compensation laws. A woman has petitioned the Ohio Industrial Commission for compensation for the loss of her husband, a traveling salesman, who was shot in a saloon over a game of cards. And from the reading of the account there is a chance of her getting away with it."

"The news despatch to the effect that the sensational trouble in the State printing office "may be delayed" will be construed by those who have observed how such ructions generally turn out as a wind gauge indicating that it is blowing over."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS

Recently former United States Senator George C. Perkins celebrated the eight-first anniversary of his birth. At his home in Oakland there were gathered about this aged and notable citizen his children, grandchildren and other relatives to assist in making the day happy and memorable. The venerable pioneer served his State in the Legislature, later as Governor and then for twenty-one years as United States Senator. During those twenty-one years Senator Perkins was absent from his seat twenty-three days, and then because of illness. This is a record of faithfulness rarely if ever equaled, and now that he has passed his four score of years, he can look back over forty-five years of almost continuous service to his State with the satisfaction that he did his part well.—St. Helena Star.

A repetition of the Irish hunger strike is being staged here by a prisoner, Jerry Yoerger, who for the past five days has refused food. Yoerger was arrested on a charge of vagrancy and claimed that he had been paralyzed. He was sentenced to thirty days in the city jail. The officers decided to let him go to the county hospital, but he ran away and after being apprehended the second time, he refused to eat unless taken to the county jail. Until yesterday afternoon the officers held out, and fearing the man would do himself harm, he was returned to the county hospital, but still refused to take food.—Woodland Mail.

H. L. Preston's majority over W. D. L. Held for superior Judge is 162, according to semi-official totals. Declaring that gross irregularities in balloting and counting in several precincts have been reported to him, W. D. L. Held says that he may demand a recount. County Clerk Hale Prather has placed the ballots in vaults and has stationed a guard in his office to see that they are not disturbed.—Oakland Press.

THAT 140 PERCENT INCREASE

To the Editor of The Tribune:

The recent increase in price of bread in Oakland to twelve cents for a one-pound loaf apparently in accord without much protest on the part of the buying public, yet it may be reasonably doubted, considered generally, and without examining closely into the business of the bakers, if the cost of flour and expense of production warrant the increase. The gradual advance from five to twelve cents a loaf was easy because the people do not think nor act, they quickly get into the habit of doing what they are asked to do, without the exercise of the reasoning faculties. To accept such an increase of the price of a staple of life, unquestioned, is weakness and lack of co-operation among the consumers. That is, if we had any sense we would see it to be that the price of all commodities was reasonable or we would produce them under public control. People are often smart individually, but careless collectively.

A little concerted action along the line of buying flour and doing more baking at home, the use of other forms than the baked loaf—and there are many—would soon change the conditions. If the baking companies found their sales diminishing on account of increased price they would quickly reduce, as they would find as much or more profit in a large production at a fair and moderate price than in smaller sales at the higher price. The lack of concerted action is the weakness of the public, and the tendency of the many to act only individually and selfishly and let others look out for themselves is the weak point of such a nation and the condition on which is built up the exactness and fortunes of "our business," but in the people would only act together to effect it if they could control.

Try it by refusing to buy the twelve-cent loaf of bread. F. C. C. Oakland, Cal. Sept. 5, 1920.

TWO STUDENTS AT 'BIG PARTY'
ARE EXPelled

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—As the final chapter in the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity scandal, which resulted in the closing of the chapter house at the University, came to a close yesterday, President Barrows, the students' affairs committee on the campus yesterday expelled two students for "gross misconduct" and suspended two more.

The action of the students committee followed an appeal from the students implicated in the "September Morn" party at the fraternity house last semester for a trial and a chance for reinstatement.

With the end of the case placed before the student committee by President Barrows, the action of the college head in barring the students from the campus was upheld.

Of the two suspended students, one is a senior and he is barred until June, 1921 and the other, a sophomore, until January, 1921. Both of the suspended students will be placed on probation and should they return to the university. The names of the four students, two of whom are declared to be women, were withheld by the investigating committee.

Alleged cheating in examinations brought a six-months' suspension to a junior pre-medical student, according to the recommendations of the student committee approved yesterday by the president.

Berkeley Will Pay
Fire Hydrant Service

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—This city's bill of $48,857 for fire hydrant service which was legalized by an opinion of the Supreme Court will be paid to the East Bay Water Company in installments, according to an arrangement made with Wissington Creek, president of the company, by Mayor Louis Bartlett.

Deferred payments extending over a period of three years will be the method used by the Berkeley council to meet obligations which the Supreme Court says must be paid. Payment of the bill as ordered by the railroad commission was set aside a year on an appeal from the Berkeley council. With the decision of the Supreme Court in July the city found without funds to make the payment.

Representatives of 36 Nations at Talk

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—Representatives of thirty-six nations gathered last night at a social gathering held under the auspices of the University Y. M. C. A. in honor of relations among foreign students of America.

"Every foreign student that comes to this University is an ambassador," declared Dr. Hurley. "If he makes good it makes for the next if he fails it is that much harder for the next student. International education will bring the nations of the world closer together. That is what is being done in California."

Y. F. Yoshida, yell leader of the international cabinet of the Y. M. C. A. led college yell, while H. M. Sein, chairman of the cabinet presided. Miss Fern Bachman, accompanied by Jose Garcia.

Poet of New School and Wife to Add to Aestheticism of College City

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—Bringing to artistic Berkeley something fauville, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kreymborg, whose originality has startled New York and other Eastern cities, have come to add their own novel touches to the aestheticism of the college community.

PRESENT TWO PLAYS

On the occasion of their university appearance the mannekins will play Kreymborg's much-heralded "Lima Beans" and "Manikin and Manikin," both of which plays were written three years ago and produced at the Provincetown theater in New York, where Kreymborg will operate the puppets while his husband reads. The program will also include readings from the best known of Kreymborg's poems, for which Kreymborg will provide a musical background by playing on a mandoline.

Eight dolls of varying types and sizes constitute the silent cast in Mrs. Kreymborg's "little theater." The dainty little mannekins were obtained in New York, from Remo Nuffano, a well-known sculptor, who resides in Berkeley. On them, Mrs. Kreymborg tries unique and startling effects in costumes and colors. Mrs. Kreymborg's puppets will make their formal debut in a college city audience at a recital to be given by Kreymborg tomorrow evening at Wheeler hall under the auspices of the University of California's music and drama committee.

INDUSTRIAL NEWS EAST SHIPPING DAYS EVENTS IN WORLD OF FINANCE

U.S. TONNAGE 50PCT. GREATER THAN IN 1914

According to a statement of Lloyd's, just given out, American tonnage has increased 50 per cent since 1914, all of the growth having been made within the last year of that period. When the world war started shipbuilding in the United States was at its lowest ebb for a period of seventeen years, then preceding the entry of the United States into the war, shipbuilding did little for at least twelve months, turning out only 225,122 tons, all classes included. Our yards had a capacity of only 10,000 tons a day, and were not equipped and in readiness for acute operations. In the following year, ending June 30, 1915, we reached 223,364 tons, a little better than the first year.

Even when we entered the war, in 1917 the building capacity of all American yards was far below the tonnage required to account for the 1914 statement. None could build sailing ships of any kind, of those only thirty-seven could build steel ships and those were through the only kind of tonnage, the 1914 yards having a capacity of 160 tons, the others having seventy-three.

It was after 1917 that America's great effort was made. After the war got under way the world got the unparalleled speed and resources we were able to show. When hostilities ended we had 341 ship yards on sea-going ship construction. This was a record of 188 yards. Thus was more than double the number of shipways in the yards of all the other nations of the world combined.

There were only 100 men employed in the American shipbuilding industry. By September, 1918, the number had been increased to 353,832. This new force produced, in the year ending June 30, 1919, 1,116,000 gross tons, averaging 3,746.16 gross tons, or more than fifteen times the tonnage of American steam craft that had been built in 1915 when the nation first got into the war. The industry was now built up for even greater production when the war ended.

Selling became more effective in the final hour of the war, as it was at the present time, and the first to lose ground, but the popular oils held most of their advantage. The closing was irregular, Sales approximated 600,000 shares.

JAILED, CHARGED WITH BURGLARY

David Shatto, University of California freshman, residing at 2739 Parker street, Berkeley, is in the Oakland city prison on a charge of attempted burglary.

Shatto, who is studying chemistry, was arrested at Piedmont avenue and Russell street in Berkeley early this morning. He had been the victim of a Hitchcock patrol, who suspected him of having entered a residence in that district. The patrolman says he found a file and a flashlight in Shatto's pockets, which caused him to bring the suspect to the city prison.

LOST HIS NERVE

Shatto is said to have confessed that just previous to his arrest he had entered the Young Garage on College avenue, Oakland, where he had been working evenings to help pay his way through the university, and that after he had broken in through the roof he had lost his nerve and decided to return home without taking any of the $200 that he thought was in the safe, to which he had the combination. He said he had a pass key to the garage, but did not use it for fear he would be suspected.

PLANS EXPLAINED

"I wanted it to appear like a real burglary," he told Captain of Inspectors James T. Drew. "I could easily have secured the money by walking in with a pass key, but I was afraid to try it. I was about to take the money when I got cold feet. Somehow, when the patrolman arrested me, I felt that already I was under suspicion and at once I told him I had just entered the garage but did not take anything."

Shatto has been working evenings at the Tourist garage as a washer and assistant repairman. He said he needed money with which to buy new text books and that he could see no other way of getting it.

S. P. Brakeman to Face Larceny Trial

J. W. Greenwood, former Southern Pacific Company brakeman, who resided at 1627 Eleventh street, will be returned to Oakland tomorrow from Los Angeles, where he was arrested yesterday on a charge of grand larceny.

According to the police, Greenwood recently entered into a deal with the A. W. Hawley Company of Oakland, whereby he was to have traded two small cars for a large touring car. Some question arose as to the ownership of the small cars, whereupon Greenwood is alleged to have forged papers to show that he owned the cars. The trade was then made and Greenwood, with his wife and small child, motored to Los Angeles.

It was later discovered that the two small cars had not been paid for.

Efficiency Expert Replies to Charges

N. W. Cook, efficiency expert concerned in the making of budget statements, today filed with the city clerk his side of the controversy in which J. W. Edgewood, school auditor, had criticised his figures.

Cook brands as "utterly untrue" an alleged charge by Edgewood that Cook had agreed to obtain Edgewood's consent to his figures before submitting them to the city council. Cook further alleged that Edgewood's figures were off in that they were not made in some places for 805 teachers and in other places for 551 teachers and 940 teachers, leading to confusion in accounting.

Thousands of Shipyard Workers Frolic For a Day at Idora and in Niles Canyon

Some of the entrants in the watermelon eating contest at the Idora Labor Day Picnic yesterday anxiously awaiting the word "Go." Below, the start of the six-year-old girls' race. All of the girls finished, although some of them fell down several times en route.

Double Picnic Bill Provides Plenty of Amusement For Labor Day

Thousands of members of Eastbay labor unions attended the joint picnic of Alameda county Building and Central Labor councils at Idora Park yesterday.

After the picnic, a celebration was held at Fernbrook park, in Niles canyon, yesterday by shipyard workers, under the direction of their shop councils.

At Idora park, formal ceremonies in honor of the day included addresses by Edgar S. Hurley, regional president and president of the Central Labor Council, and Mayor Louis Bartlett of Berkeley. Following the ceremonies was a program of sports, including a relay race, and ending with a watermelon-eating and pie-eating contest, and a rifle-throwing contest.

BUSINESS AGENTS RACE

Samuel J. Donahue of the Building Trades Council was director of the games and sports program. A great deal of interest centered in the watermelon-eating contest, in which only the business agents of the Moore Shipbuilding Company, assisted by William Brackett and John Johnston of the Union Construction Company, L. H. Cronwell of the Moore plant, and Glen Williams, A. G. Cushing and William Kearns of the Oakland Y. M. C. A.

THREE ARE KILLED.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Two women and a man were killed yesterday, and two injured, when several tons of rock dislodged above the falls near the Cave of the Winds and fell upon the party of tourists emerging from the cave.

In the rifle-throwing contest seven teams of two men—a passer and a catcher—were entered and perfect scores made by five of the teams. In this contest rivets were heated to a red heat in a portable forge and thrown a distance of ten feet with a pair of tongs. A basket was used by the catcher. Each team was allowed to throw five rivets.

TWO MAKE PERFECT SCORES

Perfect scores were made by Fred Shadlock and T. Simpson and J. S. Jenkins and George Anderson.

Raymond Benedetti proved the fastest pitcher of the boys present and Fred Roehrig swallowed his crust whole and came in second.

Stanton Lore Jr., son of the editor of the Union Labor Record, swam through his chunk of watermelon to first place in that contest, and little Robert Reeder, employing an effective technique, came in third.

A close second, who was only contested by some dozen or more youngsters who emitted a dozen black seeds from their mouths each time they shouted to proclaim their victory.

Among the small boys was the best among the small boys was the shoe race, which was won by Fred Roehrig, who was seconded by Raymond Jackson.

GO ON SPECIAL TRAINS

Special trains carried the shipworkers to their picnic in the Niles canyon park. More than 2000 workers attended this picnic, which was under the direction of H. D. Anderson, industrial relations manager of the Moore Shipbuilding Company, assisted by William Brackett and John Johnston of the Union Construction Company, L. H. Cronwell of the Moore plant, and Glen Williams, A. G. Cushing and William Kearns of the Oakland Y. M. C. A.

TRIBE STOPPED FROM BURNING GIRL AT STAKE

After nine years spent in Alaska, Serf A. Tescana, former resident of Southern California, has returned to this state and is registered at the Hotel Oakland. Tescana, who is a hardware dealer of Nome, but who has spent much of his time in hunting and prospecting, says Alaska is now the great frontier of this country and plenty of adventure is to be found there. And in this connection he told of rescuing a native girl from her tribe just at the time they were going to burn her at the stake as a sacrifice.

"I approve thoroughly of the course you are taking, Judge. To curb the speeding evil. In fact, I am tickled to death for I have tickled to get my daughter released from her tribe just at the time they were going to burn her at the stake as a sacrifice."

It was on his last trip through the frozen valleys and mountains of the north and he and his native guide came upon the village and discovered that everyone was drunk and the sacrifice was being prepared. The torch was about to be applied when Tescana and the guide went to the girl's defense. In telling of the rescue he said:

"The natives have arms enough, but they're a bit sluggish about attacking the whites, even though filled with bottled courage. The guide and I held them off with our guns until we got the hysterical girl loose from the post. It looked like they were going to rush us then, but they only growled and looked ugly. We went off about a mile and made a camp."

"We stayed there two days and kept a constant watch at the time. Now and then some of the natives would be shooting arrows, but when they saw us awake and ready for business, they would go away again. About the second night a delegation arrived, sober and remorseful. In the meantime the camp had slept off its jags, and was again a fairly respectable community."

"We looked the camp over and determined that there was no more rum at hand, and so we let the girl go back to her people. She was safe enough that night."

"We ran across some strange things chasing around that country. But that's about the best one I ever bumped into."

Consciousness of ignorance is no small part of knowledge.

MAKERS OF
SCOTT'S EMULSION

After Vacation Peel
Your Discolored Skin

Woman returning from the seashore or country with heavily rashed or freckled skin will be wise in immediately taking up the mercurized wax treatment. Weather-beaten skin will come off for no amount of "beautifying" will ever make it perfectly smooth again. The surest, safest way to shed the despoiled epidermis is with the treatment suggested here. The water must be hot, bringing as you would cold cream, and rinse it off next morning with warm water. Millions of particles of scurf will be removed and gradually showing the healthy youth beneath. One ounce of mercurized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is enough to make any discolored or freckled complexion clear and satiny soft. Its action is so gentle no harm is caused and the face shows no trace of its use.

When using this stimulating water and dirt are such wrinkle-makers that the daily use of the following astrigent lotion at this season is highly advisable. Mix one ounce of salicylic acid dissolved in water, half a pint. Used as a face bath this is a splendid wrinkle remover and preventive.—Advertisement.

The Beauty of The Lily can be yours. Its wonderfully pure, soft, pale yellow appearance, free from all blemishes, will be comparable to the perfect beauty of your skin and complexion if you will use it.

Cars Locked Up on Speeders
Judge Deaf to Plea of Lovers

One young woman, whose sweetheart had been given the customary month's sentence, called Judge Puleifer on the telephone and pleaded for a slight modification of the judgment to permit her and her beloved to use his car on a holiday trip. The judge was adamant. Holidays or not, he said, the same as other days, and the was no time off for good behavior.

Another girl, whose father just had bought her a car, called the court clerk, Ashton Flynn, and begged for mercy, saying that if her father knew what had happened he might take the machine from her. The message did not get far beyond the clerk.

"I believe this method is the best yet tried for producing results," said Judge Puleifer. "Any number of young fellows have asked for a day or two in jail rather than lose their cars. A short jail term is merely a lark to boast of to their fellows."

At least this is as near as the police came to the real story. Bernardi invited the "new girl" to go riding with him to San Francisco. When she discovered that Clarence Bernardi of Alameda, iron worker, who had been paying her court, took another girl out holidaying, she followed after with a revolver, engaged in a battle of words with her faithless sweetheart at Steiner and Sutter streets, San Francisco, demanded Bernardi's arrest on a charge of disturbing the peace, found herself booked on a similar charge and came gallantly across with the bail money for both of them. They went happily away from the Richmond station together, vowing eternal affection. Miss Carroll's rival had disappeared.
